1986
Chasing off the Genocidal Leader of Sri Lanka from MIT

The Tech
Sri Lanka continues to hold MIT student
Lawyer alleges use of torture

Protest marks official’s visit
THANK ALL SUPPORTERS

We are a proud part of the MIT Coalition Against Apartheid. We pledge our continued support for complete divestiture, increased minority enrollment and greater financial aid. We firmly believe that justice for Local 26 members cannot be separated from the struggles for justice of working men and women everywhere. We have and will continue to be on the frontlines of the Free South Africa Movement.

2013
Speaking Out for More Women in Science
at Sages & Scientists Symposium
2007
Protesting Against US Involvement in the Iraq War

Report row ousts top Indian scientist

Ruckus over call for reform at national science agency raises questions about attracting expatriate talent.

K. S. Jayaraman

Bangalore

The first appointment in a scheme to recruit expatriate scientists to senior positions in the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR) — India's largest science agency — seems to have misfired badly.

A US scientist of Indian origin has been dismissed just five months after he was offered the position of 'outstanding scientist' and tasked with helping to commercialize technologies developed at CSIR institutes.

Shiva Ayyadurai says he returned to India on a "mission" to help his homeland.

D. Cеверст/MIT